What legal professionals are saying about The MENA Business Law Review

“

The MENA Business Law Review has rapidly established itself as the go-to law periodical for up-to-date knowledge and information on law and legal developments in the region. As a bloc, the GCC is now the ninth largest economy in the world... and growing. The wider MENA region is poised to become one of the global motors for increased economic activity. The coverage provided by the MENA Business Law Review is invaluable in tracking the region's business trajectory.”

Michael Patchett-Joyce

Barrister, Arbitrator, Outer Temple
Chambers, United Kingdom & United Arab Emirates

“

The MENA Business Law Review covers all aspects of business law in the Middle East and North Africa, with an informative, comparative approach to laws and legal systems in the region. Its content is of high scientific quality owing to the professionalism of its editorial team and the caliber of its authors.”

Jamal Rbii

Professor, University of Rabat-Salé, Morocco

“

In a region that continues to be at the centre of all attention politically and economically, the MENA Business Law Review was launched at the right time to fill a gap. With significant contributions from the region's actors, the Review has managed to gain a deserved interest. Not only does each edition keep us up-to-date on legal and regulatory reforms, but it is tremendously helpful in challenging existing legal and regulatory frameworks, and contributes to placing the MENA region at the heart of the global economy.”

Dr. Souhayel Tayeb

Chief Legal and Governance Officer, Commercial Bank Dubai

Three languages

The MENA Business Law Review is the sole trilingual legal review in the region. It is mainly published in English with some French and Arabic. All articles come with an abstract in these three languages.
